Camp:Kemmangandi,

9th April 1937.

Your Highness,

I hope you have had a pleasant voyage. His Highness is now camping at Kemmangandi having the much needed rest. I am told that Bangalore and Mysore are unbearably hot and His Highness did well in coming up here just when those places were warming up. His Highness is feeling better. He finds it somewhat irksome to observe the diet but it cannot be helped. At the end of the month His Highness may go up to Ooty and take part in the first Hunt Meet.

As directed by His Highness I wrote to Major Pande to let us have the horoscope of the young lady. Major Pande who is still in Bangalore Victoria Hospital suffering from dysentery has replied to say that according to their custom we should first send them Prince Jaya's horoscope and that on its receipt they will send the lady's horoscope. His Highness has however asked me to send a polite reply informing him that if we are allowed to see her horoscope first we will comply with their wishes following the procedure observed here. I have written to Major Pande accordingly. Prince Jaya sailed from Colombo on the 4th instant. I am enclosing copy of D. Subba Rao's letter for your kind perusal. We are at the present moment in different parts of the world separated by thousands of miles.

Just as I was concluding this letter I received Colonel Lucas's letter copy of which I am enclosing. I have submitted it to His Highness. Major Birdwood cannot come till November next. I shall be obliged if Your Highness will kindly let me know your views in the matter.

With respects

Your Highness's devoted and humble servan

Sd./-T.Thumboo Chetty.
